

THE STATE REPUBLICAN

JEFFERSON CITY, MISSOURI

Subscription, $1.00 Per Year.

F. G. FULKERSON, Business Manager.

Thursday, April 24, 1890.

PRESIDENT HARRISON is giving the people a very excellent administration.

THE republican state convention will perhaps be held in Jefferson City.

St. Charles will have a pontoon bridge which will be 1,650 feet in length.

Mr. W. W. WAGNER is the popular favorite with the people and farmers for state senator.

GEN. JOHN C. FREMONT has been placed on the retired list of the army with the rank of major general.

THERE is nothing like "soap," and a little used in judicious advertising would do Jefferson City no harm.

THE numerous democratic candidates would indicate that the republicans will have excellent gunning this fall.

THE democratic party is on its decline. It is run in the interest of rings and railroads, and its days are numbered.

THE campaign of 1890 is upon us. Redeem Missouri from Bourbonism, and it adds millions to the wealth of the state.

JEFFERSON CITY can take care of herself, and a considerable portion of the state also, as the people are beginning to find out.

THE Australian system gives every candidate for office an equal show. A man can win on his merits without hiring 40 "workers" at the polls.

THERE is every reason for believing that the republicans can elect their candidate for judge of the supreme court if the right man is nominated.

Why did the Tribune, in its mention of candidates for the legislature, omit the name of Col. George C. Ramsey, the only openly pronounced Geo. C. Vest candidate?

pense of Grover Cleveland. David B. Hill of New York, is enjoying the cat fight.

THE democratic county committee did not pay much attention to the suggestion of the Cole County Democrat regarding an election for delegates to the convention.

A good republican should be selected by the republican city committee for city councilman in the Second ward to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Mr. Elsner.

HENRY M. STANLEY is quite a lion just now across the waters. At Brussels he was dined by the king at the Royal palace, and at the trains he is received by the cheering multitudes.

NOLAN's bond came very near being a "straw." If O'Day and a few others don't add a little to their "aliquot share" the balance due the state will have a hard time getting into the treasury.

GEN. MCINTYRE is said to be a candidate for the legislature. That would indicate that the general considers himself reinstated in the democratic party since the Nolan defalcation.

MR. ELSNER knew before the spring election that he could not hold his seat in the city council, and it is not very creditable to him that he has forced the city to the expense of a special election. Of course every body knows why he held on.

THE democrats have set their triggers to nominate Judge Burgess for the supreme court judgeship. If the republicans will nominate Judge Rombauer or Henry Hitchcock it will cut the career of Judge Burgess short.

"Only the regular hotel prices will be charged during the encampment week at Boston."—Grand Army Notes.

That rule seems to satisfy the people the world over, except when they come to Jefferson, where a reduction in rates is always required, that leaves the hotel man, after paying his extra expenses, nothing for his trouble.

The address of welcome delivered by Mr. John T. Clarke was not received with enthusiasm by the democracy.

JUDGE SWIFT has made the people an admirable county judge, and we hope that he will not insist on his refusal to again become a candidate. The demands of the party and the whole of Jefferson City cannot be disregarded.

THE warden has disappointed his friends in his repairs of Main street. When the law especially provides that the state shall keep Main street in repair the tax-payers ought not to be forced to get down on their knees to have it done. There are some rights possessed by the people that the state ought to respect.

THE idea of holding conventions at any point in the state other than Jefferson City, was never dreamed of until the democratic gimblet hole politicians got charge of the state. Republicans never held their conventions anywhere else while in power, and to now initiate the democrats is not very creditable to the party of brains and progress.

SPEAKER REED has broken the bourbon heart. Whenever a bill is put on its passage and the obstreperous, mulish democrat refuses to vote, he proceeds to count a quorum, in that quiet, unostentatious, yet, exasperating, sweet tempered way of his, that almost gives the counted democrats the cholera morbus.

THE New York World has for the past few days been giving its readers a very sensational account of the manner in which Henry Hilton became the owner of the Stewart millions. The story of how the house, founded by the merchant prince, was wrecked, his widow's fortune transferred from her name to Hilton's, seems almost incredible. But the World is probably giving a true history of the manner in which Henry Hilton made $12,000,000 with one million in twenty minutes.

THE republican party owes to the country necessary legislation and they should proceed with the work. The tariff must be revised in accordance with the promises made during the presidential campaign; a bankrupt law should be passed; pension legislation should be proceeded with, and proper appropriations should be made for the improvement of the western water ways. Less than this will not satisfy the west, and no time should be lost by congress in the accomplishment of this work. Nearly completed.

SENATOR REGAN of Texas, received a number of letters from members of the farmers alliance of Texas, asking why congress did not pass the sub-treasury bill authorizing the loaning of government funds to the farmers. He replied very frankly that he could not support the bill for two reasons: First, because such a measure was unconstitutional, and secondly, because it was impracticable. It is singular what a lot of rubbish a few cranks can work up through a sentimental idea. If the government loaned its funds to everybody that was deserving and needy, it would soon be ready to wind up its affairs.

FORMERLY the first thing the prison did in case of a fire was to sound the city alarm and call for the engine. Now all is changed. The water works have taken the place of a dozen engines, and the city fire department, except in case of an unprecedented conflagration, need not be called upon at all. Capt. Bradbury has, within the walls, trained men who handle the hoses like experts. We witnessed the fire from the start, and it was a matter of surprise how quickly and successfully it was put out. If the engines had been the sole dependant there is no telling what the results might have been.

THE Czar and Czarina recently visited the military prison in St. Petersburg. The beautiful Dagmar, like her sister, the Princess of Wales, has a kindly grace of manner that wins confidence. She inquired of each prisoner the reason of his punishment, and as the happy result of this personal visitation, the Czar ordered the release of sixty prisoners, and a reduction of sentence in the cases of sixty more.—Harpers Weekly.

If a visit to the Military prison results in the release of sixty prisoners and in the reduction of the sentence of sixty more, would it not be well for the Czar and Czarina to make a visit to Siberia? The discovery that sixty men—innocent men—were being wrongfully punished in a military prison, should at least awaken in the breast of the Czar a realizing sense of the possible wrongs that might have been inflicted upon the unfortunate creatures who have been sentenced to a living death.

As the 1st of May approaches, it becomes evident that cool heads and honest hearts will be needed to prevent extensive industrial troubles, as it is plain that two distinct issues, less hours and more wages, are being confused.

The eight-hour question is of vast magnitude, for its settlement will affect 20,000,000 wage-workers, men, women and children. It embraces all the elements of the country's industries and involves the mental, moral and social culture of the nation.

The most intelligent public sentiment, including the churches and colleges, is strongly in favor of the eight-hour day for moral and economical reasons that are patent to all, and the workmen themselves assert that they are fighting for a great principle, the success of which will give employment to nearly 1,000,000 now out of work.

To a superficial observer it might appear that with such powerful backing all the workmen have to do is to ask and they will receive, but the wage question is looming up as an obstacle that may cause trouble.

While vast numbers of workmen are willing to accept eight hours' pay for eight hours' work, a large percentage of them will demand the same amount of money for the shorter workday.

It is unnecessary to point out the arguments that these workmen use in support of their position. The workman's necessities cause him to rebel against a reduction of his wages even when it is accompanied by a shorter workday and gives employment to his fellow workmen. But if he strikes for a reduction of hours from 10 to 8, leaving the wages just where they are, the strike will be regarded as a strike for higher wages, and the great eight-hour principle will retire into the background.

For these reasons we think that the less the wage question is mixed with the eight-hour movement, the less industrial trouble there will be. All lines of business would soon accommodate themselves to the altered condition of things, and when the men who are now unemployed secured work and all realized the benefits of an eight-hour day, wage-earners would cease cutting each other's throats, and like a band of brothers, ask and receive higher wages.

Will the workmen have the patience and the prudence to do this? We shall see.—St. Louis Chronicle.

Prof. J. K. Gwynn, secretary of the Southwest Missouri Immigration Society, says that the organization is at present locating some investors in South and Southwest Missouri. The demand for farming lands as an investment is not so great as that for mining lands and town lots. It has been his observation that investments in a measure are epidemic in their nature. At times nothing but farm property is wanted, and then nothing but town lots, and again mining property is the craze.—Ocala Sun.

One of the largest enterprises ever undertaken in this country, and in fact, the world, is that now being carried on by the Charleroi land company, namely, the founding of the new town of Charleroi at McKean station, not far from Pittsburg, Pa., contracts aggregating $7,000,000 have been let, one of which is for the erection of what will be the largest plate glass works in the world. Streets have been laid out and preparations for the erection of a depot, and a bridge across the Monongahela, to cost $125,000. The machinery for the plate glass factory will cost $300,000. Plans for 2000 residences have been prepared.—Manufacture and Iron World.

The democratic papers through the state are for Vest's re-election to the United States senate and say that no man need apply for legislative honors on their ticket unless he will pledge himself to vote for Vest. The republicans accept them at their word, and Mr. Vest's vote on the dependent pension bill will defeat many a would be legislator of democratic persuasion, who can't get a nomination from his party without that pledge. Joe Shelby says Vest will be a candidate for senator as long as he lives, which is likely, but by earnest, united action, the next legislature will vote to let him be a candidate only and send a republican, who will act for the best interests of the state and the country.—Webster Standard.
